ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Mattress Recycling Council

The Mattress Recycling Council (MRC) is a non-profit organization formed by the bedding industry to operate the Bye Bye Mattress recycling program in states that have enacted mattress recycling laws — California, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

In each of these states households and businesses now have no-cost options to recycle mattresses. Businesses may recycle by dropping off units directly at a participating recycler or commercial volume site or by arranging transportation through MRC.

Households may directly recycle through a participating recycler, local collection site or event; or indirectly through a participating residential bulky item curbside collection program or a participating retailer that takes back old units when delivering new ones.

Bye Bye Mattress is made possible by a recycling fee that is collected when consumers purchase a mattress or box spring. Fees vary by state and each state’s fee funds that state’s program. The fee is primarily used to establish collection sites and events, transport mattresses from those sites to recyclers and cover the cost to disassemble the mattresses. Portions of the fee are also used for combating illegal dumping, researching improvements to the recycling process and identifying new uses for materials, as well as conducting public education and outreach.

Facts and Figures:

Program Wide
- The Mattress Recycling Council’s Bye Bye Mattress program recycles more than 1.5 million mattresses each year, saving 52 million pounds of materials from landfill.
- More than 80 percent of a mattress can be recycled, diverting valuable resources including metal, foam, fibers and wood from the waste stream.
- In the United States, more than 50,000 mattresses are discarded every day. NOTE — discarded includes those landfilled, recycled, donated, etc. Do not rephrase this to say landfilled.
- The average mattress is estimated to occupy 1.23 cubic yards in a landfill.
- Recyclers participating in the program disassemble a mattress every two minutes.

State Specifics
- California
  - More than 5 million mattresses have been recycled in California since the program began in 2016.
- Connecticut
  - More than 750,000 mattresses have been recycled in Connecticut since the program began in 2015.
- Rhode Island
  - More than 330,000 mattresses have been recycled in Rhode Island since the program began in 2016.
Descriptions:
• More than 80 percent of a mattress can be recycled and turned into new consumer and industrial products. For example: the foam is recycled into carpet padding, the springs are used to make new appliances or other steel products, the fabric can be made into industrial filters and the wood from box springs is chipped for use as mulch or biomass fuel.
• Mattress recycling supports and creates jobs by working with local nonprofits and small and minority-owned businesses to collect and recycle mattresses.
